CITY OF ASTORIA!

Carrying Passengers at $10, the Round Trip, (Meals Included.)

The Boat leaves Portland Wednesdays and Saturdays at 7½ A. M. Returning leaves Astoria Thursdays and Mondays at 6 o'clock A. M.

Every person purchasing a Passenger Ticket will be presented with one of 900 Prize Tickets, to be drawn on the 1ST DAY OF AUGUST, 1867, for the following Prizes:

St[illegible] U. S. GRANT, to be divided into 4 shares;

ONE BLOCK OF LOTS IN EAST PORTLAND, divided into 8 shares, or one lot to the share, viz: Lots 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7 and 8, Block 17, opposite the "New Columbian" Hotel, and at the terminus of the proposed Suspension Bridge;

ONE GOLD WATCH, worth $100;

150 CORDS DRY FIR WOOD, in 3 shares, to be placed on the Brooklyn Wharf.

The Steamer is 54 tons burthen, 52 horse-power engine, propeller wheel, draft of water 5 feet; she is being thoroughly refitted and refurnished as a Passenger Boat. The Boat will be delivered in perfect order, free from all incumbrance, and Warranty Deeds made for the real estate, to the persons drawing the same. Tickets can be had of C. P. FERRY, in Portland, where the money will be left on deposit till the prizes are drawn and delivered.

Any person having a claim against me, and wishing a ticket, can get an order for one by calling on me on board the boat. The person drawing the gold watch can have $100 in gold coin, if preferred.

C. P. FERRY, Broker, R. J. LADD, ex-Sheriff, AL. ZEIBER, U. S. Marshal, and C. S. SILVER, Merchant, of Portland, are the Committee and Judges to direct the Drawing of Prizes. The Prizes will be drawn before the 1st of August, if all the tickets are taken before that time.

The above liberal offer is made to the traveling public to enable the subscriber to pay his debts, and not with any reference to speculation, as all the property is valued at much less than its cost, (the Steamer alone having cost $11,000), and the price for carrying passengers to Astoria being much less than the usual fare.

Portland May 21, 1867. d2m J. W. KERN.

Notice.

OWING TO THE STEAMER U. S. GRANT having lost several regular trips, she will continue to run for a few weeks, to give all ticket holders an opportunity to travel. The tickets stand good for a passage as long as the boat continues to run. A few more tickets yet to be disposed of.

MINING TOOLS. A Large Stock on hand and for sale by H. W. CORBETT & CO.

The Late Collision on the Hudson River.

The following narrative of the late collision on the Hudson river, which has been mentioned frequently of late in our telegraphic dispatches, is from the editorial correspondence of the Eugene Journal, dated New York, Sept. 27th:

Leaving Niagara early in the morning, we arrived at Athens at ten o'clock in the evening, and there the passengers went on board the steamboat Dean Richmond, and in a few minutes were gliding down the Hudson en route to New York. The moon and the stars were shining, and the night was so clear and bright that you could see the smallest vessels half a mile. Under these circumstances even the most timid felt secure, not dreaming that any accident could happen on the broad Hudson, where there was ample room for the largest vessels to pass without coming within several hundred feet of each other. But soon after the passengers had retired to their state rooms, and while some were still awake, a fearful catastrophe occurred. A few minutes after midnight the fine steamboat Dean Richmond came in sight, the steamer Vanderbilt coming up the river. They headed directly at each other, and under a full head of steam these two gigantic boats struck bow to bow. The Vanderbilt drove her iron bow thirty feet into the Dean Richmond, and the latter commenced sinking immediately. The two boats were so firmly wedged into each other that they hung together several minutes, during which time a part of the passengers of the sinking boat got on the Vanderbilt. I was in a state room on the upper deck, and before I came aware of the cause of the shock, the boat had gone down on that side till the water was up nearly even with my room, and two tiers of state rooms beneath on the lower decks, were under water. Finding that the door had been so much sprung by the giving way of the timbers below that it was impossible to open it, I punched out the glass in the center of the door, intending to draw out through the hole, but it was not wide enough, and I finally got the window open, and passed through it to the outside deck. In twenty minutes the Dean Richmond went to the bottom in thirty feet of water, leaving only her upper cabin above water. There were several sail boats in sight, and one of them came alongside and took off the passengers who had not got on the Vanderbilt. In a few minutes the steamboat Drew came along from Albany and took from the Vanderbilt and the schooner all the Dean Richmond's passengers, and came on to New York. The Vanderbilt proceeded on to Troy, but has since been taken off the line on account of injuries received. She was a magnificent boat, but in no respect equal to the Dean Richmond. The Richmond was built a year or two ago at a cost of three-quarters of a million of dollars, and was intended to surpass all other boats. She was furnished like a palace, and perhaps had no superior in the world. Every part of the boat was finished in the highest possible style, and every mirror, every chandelier, and every piece of furniture in her immense cabins, was the finest that could be obtained. She had on board three hundred tons of cheese, and a large amount of other freight, and about one hundred and fifty passengers and their baggage. Like nearly all the other passengers, I lost all my baggage. The officers report that only two colored waiters and perhaps a fireman were drowned, but it is quite likely that some of the passengers who were in the lower state-rooms will be found there when the boat is raised. Two days before the collision, the Vanderbilt, which had been running to Athens along with the Dean Richmond, was bought by another company and placed on the Troy line, and it is generally believed that the officers intended to sink one or both boats, and for that purpose deliberately ran them together, regardless of the lives on board.

Sheridan at Washington.

General Sheridan was welcomed to Washington on the 23d September by General N. P. Chipman, who was spokesman for the welcomers. He said briefly and pithily:

"Comrades and Fellow Citizens: Nearly six years ago in the little village of Rolla, Missouri, then the bivouac of United States soldiers, I first met Capt. Philip H. Sheridan. He was chief commissary of the army of the army of the frontier, which soon after, under the leadership of the lamented Curtis, gave us the glory of Pea Ridge and saved Missouri from rebel occupation.

But ministering to the bodily wants of soldiers was too constrained a sphere for one of Sheridan's pluck and mettle, and he was accordingly transferred to the army then in front of Corinth. His qualities pointed to him as a cavalry leader, where he soon became marked; and imperceptibly to the country, and almost so to himself, he rose in rank and usefulness, until great battles were won by his valor and victories were snatched from the very jaws of defeat, while the whole people, from Atlantic to Pacific, shouted the praises of gallant Phil. Sheridan.

Peace came to us with no blot upon the fair name or fame of this young officer. Lincoln who loved him as his own son, had crowned him with the highest military honors, and no man said the chaplet was not fairly won.

But there awaited him higher duties and larger responsibilities. Peace had for him her victories no less than war. Need I remind you what these were or when achieved? He comes to us from New Orleans as he came from the shattered cohorts of Lee's army, thoroughly imbued with the lessons of the war, and dauntless still in inforcing their teachings.

Lord Byron wrote of one who, if not a progenitor of this young knight, was none too noble to have been—what I now repeat as applicable:

> 'Nature made but one such man,
> And broke the die in moulding Sheridan.

With hearts full of thanks to you, General Sheridan, for your brilliant defense of the right, under circumstances such as never before so tried your courage, your patriotism, or your manhood, we congratulate and welcome you among us."

HOW DEMOCRACY FLOURISHES.—The Yreka Journal sensibly says:

The record of the past twenty years plainly shows that the Democracy flourishes upon exciting prejudices in reference to the inferior races. It kept the country cowed down for nearly half a century from daring to say or do anything to prevent slavery, and were defeated only by the rashness to force people to submit to a gross outrage upon the constitutional liberty of poor humanity. The same prejudice still exists, and every effort to raise the degraded and ignorant to be more useful to the welfare and prosperity of the country, gives so much more capital to the demagogues who run the Democratic party principally for the spoils, and who, could they secure the friendship of one half or more of the despised, would readily grant them every privilege as they did in early days. The time is coming for prejudice to die out in this respect, and whatever is right and just must prevail, no matter how strong a few narrow-minded politicians may howl. The popular will is slow, as all wieldy objects are, and time will tell which is right, independent of man's selfish desires. We profess to be no sticklers for endeavuring to make inferiors equal, but we are perfectly willing to give the humblest creature a fair chance in this world, which was made for all to enjoy the blessing of liberty and equal protection of life and property.

FROM KOOTENAI.—The Walla Walla Statesman of the 25th has the following:

Mr. Whitman, just down from Kootenai, reports business in that camp as lively; miners doing well, and prospects generally favorable. In relation to the Humphrey mystery, he states that the missing man left Kootenai in company with Hefron and McKay, and at that time had about $4,000 in money, and eight or nine horses. Hefron was broke, and McKay had not to exceed $150. The two Chinamen who started down with them, had returned to Kootenai. The general impression is that Humphrey was murdered for his money, and the fact that Hefron was "flush," without having had an opportunity to acquire money honestly, points to him as the probable murderer. Both Hefron and McKay have disappeared from Walla Walla, but where they have gone to, we have no means of knowing. The woman Mary Wells, with whom Hefron stated Humphey had gone off, is now at Walla Walla, and reports entire ignorance as to the whereabouts of the missing man. All the circumstances favor the conclusion that Humphrey was murdered, and that the men arrested at Walla Walla were the guilty parties. Time alone can unfold the mystery.

Mrs. Lincoln's Pecuniary Embarrassments.

[From the Chicago Tribune, Oct. 8th.]

Dispatches have appeared in various newspapers during the past week to the effect that Mrs. Lincoln, widow of the late President, was in New York under the assumed name of Mrs. Clarke, for the purpose of selling a portion of her wardrobe to realize money which she greatly needed. Having no knowledge of the fact, and deeming the matter one with which the press had no business to meddle without her consent, we have refrained from referring to it or inserting anything in the Tribune on the subject. But as some of the New York papers of Thursday last contain full accounts of the whole matter, including several letters from the lady to W. H. Brady, of New York, evidently made public with her consent, propriety no longer requires reticence on our part and we therefore feel free to speak of it. There is no question but Mrs. Lincoln is in straightened circumstances. She states that her income is but $1,700 per annum, which is wholly inadequate to support her and her minor son in a style suitable to her station in society. She owns a comfortable dwelling on West Washington street of this city, which we believe is paid for, but which she is unable to retain, and it has been offered for sale for some time past. Last summer she sold her carriage and her [illegible], and a large part of her furniture at a sacrifice, and [illegible] the remainder of the season in a neighboring town, on the shore of [illegible] lake, in close [illegible]. Indeed, ever since she came to this city to reside she has shut herself out from all society, declining to receive visits of condolence and sympathy from ladies whose husbands had enjoyed the personal friendship of Lincoln during his lifetime. She has lived a [illegible] life, brooding over her terrible bereavement, refusing to be comforted, consoled or [illegible]. Our citizens know that she resided in Chicago, but she was never seen, and her [illegible] were wholly unknown except by vague rumor; and if she [illegible] it to any one it was under the injunction of secrecy, and no public use could be made of the information. The New York World says that "she complains bitterly that men who brought her influence to [illegible] their official positions, and were profuse with [illegible] if she would gratify their wishes, now give her the cold shoulder."

Of the justice of this complaint we know nothing, except we never knew a man, who held [illegible] under Lincoln, who [illegible] he was aware of her [illegible]. There may have been [illegible] such, but the number was small enough to keep the [illegible] from the ear of Dame Rumor. It is hardly fair to charge the Republican party with indifference or lack of feeling, [illegible] who [illegible] official favors at the hands of Lincoln with ingratitude, or of giving his widow the "cold shoulder."

But now that the seal is broken and the injunction of secrecy removed, there will be no excuse for non [illegible]. The widow of President Lincoln must have a competence. She should be rendered able to keep and to live in her own house in comfort for the rest of her days.

Congress ought to have appropriated to the widow and her children the sum that [illegible] would have [illegible] had he not been [illegible]. This would have been little enough. It was a niggardly piece of [illegible] to give [illegible] but [illegible] and [illegible] days [illegible] received the [illegible] of the [illegible]. The blame [illegible] in part, perhaps, of [illegible] who brought the legislation forward, for not [illegible] the [illegible] lady. We trust that the [illegible], irrespective of party, at the ensuing session of Congress will insist upon an appropriation of the [illegible] of the salary President Lincoln would have received had he lived out his [illegible]. And, in the [illegible], the [illegible] and [illegible] of Lincoln, and [illegible] who received favors at his hands [illegible] for his [illegible] and [illegible] of the [illegible] by [illegible] up [illegible] of [illegible] and [illegible] to the widow [illegible] at [illegible]. There need be no fear of giving too much or too [illegible]. Having [illegible] with her furniture, and now [illegible] for [illegible] to [illegible] the [illegible] of life and [illegible] to [illegible] her boy, it is high time that she [illegible] relief.

It would be [illegible] on the [illegible] people to allow this [illegible] of things to continue [illegible] they [illegible] aware of it. The [illegible] of [illegible] voted the widow of Senator Douglas a [illegible] sum than the Congress of the nation appropriated to the widow of the martyred President.

A Scrap of History.

The Ironton (Ohio) Register [illegible] how Vallandigham [illegible] to be a Democrat:

From a citizen of this county who attended Jefferson College [illegible] a [illegible] of Vallandigham, we learned how this notorious individual became a Democrat. There were two [illegible] in the college between which the most animated rivalries existed. All the literary training of the young men was [illegible] to the [illegible], and at the close of every session, they would arrange for contests, in order to show their proficiency and progress. Vallandigham belonged to one of these, and was [illegible] by his [illegible] as a kind of champion, and by the faculty and entire college as a young man of brilliant intellect and attainments. In fact, he always carried off the first honors of his [illegible]. The close of a session was drawing nigh, and the [illegible] met to [illegible] champions for a [illegible] then to be held. Vallandigham was chosen by his society; the opposing club [illegible] a young man named Mercer, now a member of Congress from Pennsylvania. The theme of the discussion was the tariff issue, a subject then dividing the country. At that time Vallandigham was a strong Whig, and Mercer was equally as strong a Democrat. How it so happened, that the disputants were [illegible] sides not in consonance with their convictions—Vallandigham to oppose, Mercer to uphold the tariff. Both however, prepared themselves well and strove hard to win. The contest was a well-fought one, but Mercer proved himself, on this occasion at least, the abler debater and carried off the palm. Vallandigham was somewhat chagrined, and from that day to this, has been an anti-tariff man and a Democrat, while his opponent, Mercer, has been strongly tariff and is now a Republican Congressman.

TOO MANY IRONS IN THE FIRE.—The St. Louis Democrat, of September 28th, contains the following:

Kansas has too many irons in the fire at once. The [illegible] suffrage amendment and the female suffrage amendment are pending, and a very active contest is going on between the friends and the opponents of the temperance law passed last year. With so many issues, so diverse in character, pending at the same election, with all the claims of rival candidates and questions regarding the railroads in the State, it is not at all unlikely that some interest will be neglected. The Germans recently held a [illegible] convention in opposition to the liquor law, and the temperance men have just held a [illegible] convention in support of it. At the latter, leading advocates of female suffrage were present, and an alliance seems to have been formed between the friends of temperance and those of female suffrage. This is more natural in Kansas than it might be in some other States, because the temperance law now in force—the very one, we believe, for the repeal of which there is agitation—provides that no license to sell liquor shall be granted except by a petition signed by a majority of the adults, male and female, in the town or district. Under this law, the women have already practically exercised the right of suffrage on the temperance question, and the advocates of female suffrage are therefore naturally opposed to its repeal. Combinations of this nature are generally weak; it usually happens that the coalition is exposed to all the disadvantages of both elements, and combines only a part of their strength. But in this instance the peculiar nature of the law in question may enable the friends of temperance and the friends of female suffrage to act together with greater success than either could expect alone.

A famous Spanish bull-fighter named Lagartijo, after having, as he supposed, killed his antagonist, turned to receive the applause of the spectators, when, with a last effort, the bull rose and drove his horn into the man's shoulder, killed the man on the spot.

The British Secretary of Legation at Lisbon writes to a London paper that the so-called port sent to the British market is largely adulterated with alcohol and [illegible] juice.

WEDNESDAY MORNING, OCTOBER 30, 1867.

The Higher Literature of the Democratic Party.

The Old Guard, a monthly periodical published in New York and edited by C. Chauncey Burr, claims to be the "only Democratic magazine published in the United States." It professes to be "a first class family literary magazine, combined with sound political principles." This sole representative of the higher literature of the Democratic party may therefore be looked on as an authority. As it claims to speak as [illegible] the oracles of the party, its pretensions may not be doubted. In its prospectus it advises the world that it will stand [illegible] as it was, "without acquiescing in any of the subversions under the title of amendments." Also, that the war has settled nothing, and that the talk about its being "the final arbiter" is all moonshine. In a late number it advocates with much energy the Democratic idea of repudiation, and calls it the true remedy for the financial difficulties of the country. It declares that "every dollar of the debt was illegally contracted—piled upon the people in violation of the Constitution, and for purposes which the Constitution condemns as crimes." That, certainly, as a proposition, is sufficiently specific and intelligible. But bold as it is, it is only a corollary from Buchanan's position that the Union could not, consistently with the Constitution, be preserved by force of arms. It is only a legitimate deduction from the Democratic doctrine that the "war was unconstitutional." This magazine of high pretensions indignantly inquires if the people are "morally bound to pay a debt because it was amassed in violation of the Constitution?" It then adds: "With the people, the debt was not a voluntary one. In the proper sense of that word, it is not a debt at all. It is a levy made upon the people by military power, and is, really, no more binding upon their honor than the demands of a highwayman." And again: "During the whole progress of the war, we never ceased to declare that the debt, being contracted by an unrighteous conflict, [illegible] to be, never would be, and never [illegible] be paid." This representative magazine of higher Democratic literature politely characterizes [illegible] in its own party who hint at such [illegible] as these as "indiscreet" and "rash," as [illegible] hailing from the ranks of Democracy." These extracts will serve as specimens of the arguments put forth on the subject of [illegible] by "the only Democratic magazine in the United States." Let us see what it has to say on the political situation.

According to this oracle of Democracy, the first step which it is necessary to take is plain. "There [illegible] been great and determined party which stoutly refuses to admit the legality of this indecent rump of a Congress, and which proclaims all its acts as null and void." Of course it is also [illegible] that all the acts of Congress since 1860 are to be treated as null and void likewise. [illegible] they must all stand on the [illegible] or fall through the same [illegible]. In regard to the method by which the acts of Congress are to be nullified and repudiated, we are kindly furnished with information. [illegible] At Able-dreamers who still talk of an appeal to the ballot. Why talk of appealing to the ballot when we know there is no [illegible] ballot? Must we be [illegible] upon as a nation of fools as well as a nation of cowards? This [illegible] of despotism must be thrown down. [illegible] down, [illegible] as machinery [illegible] by [illegible] law. The [illegible] must be taught, and be made to feel that the [illegible] of this terrible [illegible] is not only to [illegible] but it is to be [illegible] even if, in doing it, [illegible] Abraham Lincoln!" [illegible] is a pretty "Conservative" pro[illegible]. It is just what the "D[illegible]y" would [illegible], had the power. As it is, it would not be [illegible] the threat of this high-toned [illegible] was verified by the [illegible] of the leading men of the Union party.

No doubt the Old Guard would be extremely glad to get rid of General Grant in this way, as it says of him: "We [illegible] of no [illegible] to an almost ruined country than the [illegible] to the Presidency of such a tool of despotism as Grant. Should Grant be nominated, he must be [illegible] combinations may be necessary to secure his defeat. Better take the expelled Haytien Geffrard, or even old Soulouque, than to take a man whose rule would be marked by the [illegible] creatures as [illegible] Sickles and Pope. Our first business is to get rid of these military abominations, even if we should have to use the devil himself to accomplish so great a purpose."

So [illegible] is "Democracy" as expounded by "the only Democratic magazine in the United States." These are not the crude and hasty utterances of [illegible] journalism, but they are emanations of the profounder thought, of the philosophic inspiration of the party. What a commentary on the [illegible] of a party that such a periodical is [illegible] and supported by it as "a first-class family literary magazine, combined with sound political principles!"

Has Got a Case.

The numerous friends of Bog[illegible] Semple, Esq., will be delighted to [illegible] that he is no longer a briefless barrister. He has got a case. The duty has devolved on him of appearing as [illegible] for the "D[illegible]" in their cause [illegible] Black R[illegible]." He did not put himself forward in this business for true merit alone. He was called on; but there being no [illegible] who is the son of a Senator and [illegible] to undertake the job, the case naturally fell to this modest, though able young barrister,—just as he inherited from Lawrence almost the only case he ever had in the Courts of law. We cannot give the attorney in this cause much space in our columns, though doubtless he deserves it; but must content ourselves with making a single quotation from his article. Alluding to the time when the rebellion was raging, he says: "The Democracy may have been in favor of war at that time. They may have been in favor of civil war, where man to man and knife to knife the [illegible] could have met the Puritans in every State and county of the Republic, and let out their [illegible] blood, but a sectional war they never advised, supported or countenanced." O, learned judge! O, excellent young man! The Democracy were not in favor of a sectional war, that is to say a war upon the Southern rebels; but they were in favor of a civil war for the slaughter of the Puritans,—or to [illegible] more plainly, for the extermination of that mischievous faction of 1,866,452 persons who voted for Mr. Lincoln in 1860, and of that still larger faction of two and a quarter millions who voted for him again in 1864. That was all. The Democracy were not bloody-minded. Except as regarded [illegible] feelings toward the trifling faction just mentioned, they were an innocent, inoffensive peace party. As the attorney has promised to continue his "argument," (which he styles a reply to Senator Williams' speech,) and as he will no doubt need a motto for his next number, (the one before us has a most pretentious motto drawn from Pope and by him imitated from Horace,)—we suggest for his use the following [illegible] the same highly classic English author. (For the whole context, the curious reader is referred to Pope's version of the second satire of Dr. Donne)—:

Time! * * * * * * * * * * * *
Whose gentle progress makes a calf an ox,
And brings all natural events to pass,
Hath made him an attorney of an ass.

American Finances.

David A. Wells, special Commissioner of the United States Treasury Department, was sent to Europe some months ago to examine and report upon the British method of raising revenue, with a view of presenting such facts as he might deem worthy of notice, to the Treasury Department and also to Congress at the approaching session. Recently while in London he noticed an article in Blackwood on the subject of American finances, which was so glaring a misrepresentation of facts to appear in a magazine of influence and character, that Mr. Wells took the trouble to reply to it through the London newspapers. The article in Blackwood was very similar to those which appear in the Copperhead press of the United States. For example, it was stated, that the receipts of our Government are less than its expenditures; that the amount of the national debt had never been definitely stated and was not accurately known; that the debt was steadily increasing at a rapid rate; that the debts of the States amounted to not less than $1,500,000,000, and that the aggregate of public indebtedness could not be less than $6,000,000,000. To these assertions the Commissioner replies in an elaborate article, disproving them by official statements systematically arranged, and affording a clear view of the state of our finances, present and prospective. Alluding to the statement that the amount of the debt is not definitely known, he says:

Congress by law requires the American Secretary of the Treasury to publish, as soon as practicable after the close of each month, an exact statement of the public debt in all its departments, together with the exact amount of cash on hand; and this law has been most faithfully complied with ever since the termination of the war. This statement is made under the following classification, than which is difficult to conceive how anything could be plainer: First, debt bearing coin interest; second, debt bearing currency interest; third, debt bearing no interest, (viz, greenbacks, or other forms of paper currency;) fourth, total debt; fifth, cash in the Treasury, specifying coin and currency separately.

This statement is published every month under the classification indicated, as required by law. Could anything be more absurd than to question the truthfulness of the statements which have been given regularly for years under the attestation of official authority? To the assertion that the debt, so far as it has been reduced during the last two years, has been reduced by issuing greenbacks to that amount, the Commissioner replies by publishing the following figures from official sources, showing the condition of the United States Treasury, so far as its currency issues are concerned, at two recent periods, viz: on the 1st day of March, 1866, and the 1st day of June, 1867, respectively:

	March, 1866.	June, 1867.
United States notes, (greenbacks)	$423,435,373	$374,246,757
Fractional currency	26,523,731	73,875,379
Certificates of deposit	13,427,600	15,400,440
Total	$463,356,767	$418,602,505
Reduction in currency in fifteen months		$45,863,201

The last statement of the Federal debt, viz: on the first day of the present month, showed that including greenbacks, fractional currency, bonds and certificates of every description, the aggregate was considerably less than $2,500,000,000. Of the the amount of State and local debts, Mr. Wells says:

During the past few months, also, a careful estimate of the recognized State, county and municipal debts of every section of the country—North, South, East and West—has been made for the first time with great care and labor by a competent authority—Hon. George Walker, of Massachusetts, formerly Bank Commissioner of the State of Massachusetts, and financial agent of the United States in Europe. The result of this gentleman's investigations show that the aggregate of these debts is less than $700,000,000; and a little consideration will convince that this estimate cannot be erroneous. Thus the bulk of the so-called local debts was incurred in the payment of bounties; and bounties were not paid to any great extent until the last two years of the war. Nearly all other war ex[illegible]—as for equipment and transportation—were paid by the National Government. If we assume now that 500,000 received bounties to the extent of $1,000 each, we have an expenditure of $500,000,000. But no 500,000 men ever received bounties to this extent. Some, indeed, received more; but taking the whole country, the average of bounties was much nearer $800 than $1,000. Another error which has been fallen into in the discussion of this subject is the assumption that the local debt of the whole country increases in proportion to the debts of the States of New England and New York. So far from this being the case, some of the great States of the Union, as Ohio, Illinois, Indiana and Pennsylvania, for example, came out of the war with less State indebtedness than they had at the commencement. Others, comparatively speaking, increased their debts but slightly, having paid no bounties whatever. Thus the debt of Iowa, which was $332,296 in 1860, is at present $622,296, with a population approximating a million; and the debt of Minnesota, which was $2,525,000 in 1860, now is $2,625,000.

Our public debts of all sorts do not much exceed $3,000,000,000,—an immense sum, it is true, but not half so large as the debt is represented to be by British Tories and American Copperheads.

Characteristic.

The Herald has a ghoulish attack upon the widow of the late President Lincoln. It devotes an article of two columns to the work of traducing and vilifying her because she is in a destitute condition and reduced to the necessity of selling a portion of her wardrobe to raise money. Nothing could be more congenial to the editor of that paper than an opportunity to thus assail the widow of the Chief Magistrate whom he, in common with other members of his party, hounded to a bloody grave. It is not to be expected that those who incited the assassination and gloated over it when the deed was done, will omit any opportunity to slander and insult the widow in her bereaved condition. There could be no more congenial, and perhaps no more fitting employment, for Brick Pomeroy and Beriah Brown.

The late speeches of Vallandigham in Ohio consist wholly of expressions of sympathy with treason and of the warmest admiration of traitors. This man is now one of Johnson's most trusted political friends. Suppose that the traitors they are glorifying had fallen into the hands of Washington instead of those of Johnson, does any man doubt what would have followed? Does any one suppose that he would have had any of this vealy water-gruel sentimentalism, which is issuing proclamations of amnesty, and proclaiming its sympathy with Lee and Jackson? Then take the case of a man, who was worth the whole of them, Andre. He had more genius, more worth, and more character, than the whole crew of rebel chiefs, and Washington, in spite of all entreaties, hung him at the gibbet. He was innocent as the snow, compared with the wretches who led the armies and Cabinet of the rebellion. It is one of the melancholy proofs of the decline of public virtue, when such men are not punished, and when the leader of a great party proclaims his sympathy with treason and his admiration of traitors.

Is there any wonder that the creature who was compelled to flee from San Francisco for exulting at the assassination of the Chief Magistrate of the Republic, should now defame the widow of the illustrious victim and mock at her distress? None whatever. This last act, though it reveals a shocking depth of depravity, is just what should be expected from a creature of such antecedents.

PETITION FOR GOVERNOR BALLARD.—The Boise Statesman of the 24th, says:

We examined yesterday some of the immense petitions signed by the people of Boise and Ada counties for the retention of Governor Ballard. The names of some of the most prominent men in the Democratic party stand out bold and fearless on the rolls. This is not only an endorsement of the right, but a compliment to an upright and faithful public officer, who filled his position and discharged his duties without regard to the dictates, whims or command of party. It is scarcely a week since these petitions were started by the people, and yet they number over two thousand names, every one of whom are bona fide residents of the Territory. The people are evidently pleased with Ballard, and we feel assured that he will in the future, as he has in the past, discharge his official duties in a judicious, faithful and impartial manner.

FROM JUDGE MARQUAM.—I have used Henley's Royal Balsam for a bad cough, and found it a splendid medicine. I have recommended it to a great many. They speak very highly of the medicine, and I freely recommend it to the public.

PARTICULARS OF THE LATE INDIAN OUTRAGE.—In the Boise Statesman of the 24th inst. we find the following particulars of the killing of a man and capture of his wife by Indians, mention of which was made in this paper yesterday morning: On Monday morning last Sergeants Nichols and Denoille, and Mrs. Denoille, the latter's wife, started from Camp Lyon in a four horse ambulance to come in to Fort Boise. When about nine miles out the party was fired into by the Indians, who lay concealed among the high and broken rocks which line the road at that point. Denoille was killed and his wife was taken by the Indians, where she was either tortured and murdered, or has before this met a fate worse than death. Nichols escaped. We are indebted to Sergeant Nichols, who arrived on the stage Tuesday night, for the following report: Serg. Denoille was killed at the first volley. I rose and returned the fire. Not knowing that he was wit, I told him to hold the reins and I would keep on shooting. I fired twice before I knew he was shot; and the first intimation I had of it was when he threw up his hands and exclaimed, "My God! I am shot!" and started to fall. I endeavored to catch him with my left hand and grab the reins with my right, but missed both, and he fell out, the reins dropping at the same time. The horses then run about half a mile at full speed, when one on the tongue became entangled in the lines or stumbled and fell, stopping the wagon. The Indians were now again upon us. I immediately jumped from the wagon, and told Mrs. Denoille to do the same and run for the rocks. She was perfectly frantic—so excited she did not know what she was doing. She finally got out and I tried to induce her to seek shelter with me in among the rocks, but with no success; and becoming more bewildered she declared she would go back to her husband, which she started to do on the run, and I could not prevent her. The Indians were then only about three hundred yards off. I then rushed for the rocks. On getting within fifty yards of a large rock, an Indian who had got in ahead, rose and shot at me. I fired back, and started for another shelter, which I reached in safety and commenced shooting again, but without effect, I think. I worked my way over to Sucker creek, and thence to Carson's ranch, which place I arrived at about five o'clock, with nothing on but my pants and shirt. The last I saw of Mrs. Denoille she was in the hands of the Indians. They stripped Denoille's body and dragged it to the road and then burned the wagon and its contents. Denoille had on his person about twelve hundred dollars in greenbacks and a valuable gold watch, all of which fell into their hands. There were three other parties attacked at the same place, at different times, on the same day, but I believe they all escaped by hiding among the rocks. Mr. Hardy, one of the parties, had a narrow escape. His horse was killed under him."

The Statesman adds: We learned by the Owyhee stage last night that a party of men were preparing to go out from Silver and bring in the body of Denoille, and ascertain, if possible, the fate of his wife.

SENSATION MONGERS.—The finding of the sack of buried [illegible] on Second street, Monday afternoon, created not a little sensation, and gave the gatherers-up of wonderful tales, a rare chance to exercise their peculiar gifts. We heard not less than two dozen theories, yesterday, as to how the money came there, why it was buried there, who did it, and what became of the man, woman, child or "other person" who did it; any one of which theories seemed to be supported by about as many probabilities as is usual in similar cases, or as seemed to be necessary in this particular case. We doubt, however, if any claimant for the coins could, upon any of the theories, establish an undeniable title. The finding of this money, though a first-class sensation, was not equal to that which it revived—the discovery some two weeks since, of the bones of a human skeleton in the same street. The latter circumstance was talked over, told and re-told, with incident and circumstance, enlarged and embellished, until it was something more than a first-class, double-header sensation. How came the female there? What foul deed was covered up with those bones? What wretch with the mark of Cain on his brow, shadowed with guilty fear when those bones were unearthed? Would discovery and justice ever overtake him? etc., etc. A good deal of the frightfully interesting romance of the matter will be lost when it is known that a long time ago the Indians had a burial ground just about where those bones were dug up. We are sorry for the sensation mongers, but we can't help it—the bones probably belonged to a squaw!

NOT KILLED NOR SCALPED.—It will be recollected that, some time ago, a report was published to the effect that John Crotch[illegible], a well known freighter from various places on the Columbia river to the interior, had been killed by Indians near where is the Harney Lake country. The report turns out to have been incorrect. The Walla Walla Post, one of the 25th, says he "has arrived at Walla Walla, bringing his scalp with him and looking like anything but a dead man. Mr. C. informs us that the troops are building a three-company post, located about thirty miles south of the Lake. This has heretofore been the camping ground of the Snake Indians in winter, and the establishment of the post will enable the troops to operate against the Indians at a season of the year when hostilities can be waged to the best advantage. Mr. C. further informs us that there is a large quantity of fine land in the neighborhood of Harney Lake that with the pacification of the country will offer inducements to settlers. No Indians had been seen, but the remains of their wakiups were found in all directions. Grain for the use of the post at Harney Lake is now being freighted from Grand Ronde Valley."

RECORDER'S COURT.—The following were the proceedings of yesterday in the Recorder's court:

Henry Walker, arrested on the charge of murdering Jas. Long, had an examination and was discharged, there being no such evidence as would justify a suspicion of guilt. His statement when arraigned, was reasonable and clear and apparently true.

Fred. Bastien (Indian) and Mary Philomene (squaw) were tried upon a charge of assault and battery upon a squaw named Kate, and also upon a charge of larceny committed by stealing $11 from the same complainant. The charge of assault and battery was not sustained and the defendants were let off on that charge. On the trial of the charge of larceny, the Court found that the offense proved was embezzlement. Bastien was fined $25 and costs, of which he paid $17, and went to jail for the rest. The woman was fined $50 and costs, in default of which she was sent to jail.

F. Wegner was tried on a charge of uttering threats against the life of John Sawyer, but was discharged.

BUSINESS AT UMATILLA.—The Umatilla Press of the 26th says: We have nothing to report. Business during the week has been exceedingly dull, and the freighting season may be considered about closed. Teams and trains now out are making their last trip, and several have already gone into winter quarters. Our merchants are receiving their stock of winter goods for home consumption, and the demand for clothing is quite active. We shall endeavor in the course of a week or two, to obtain the figures, and give a general resume of the season's trade, which, notwithstanding it has been considered a dull year, will compare favorably with that of last summer. The Press quotes: Flour—Standard Mills, $8 00 ℔ bbl.; Salem Mills $8 00; Magnolia, $7 50; Walla Walla, $5 00 ℔ bbl.

THE RACES AT THE WHITE HOUSE.—In the first race at the Riverside track, yesterday, mile heats, two best in three, trotting, the following entries were made for the purse of $25: Crawford's mare, John Ladd's Thompson, Smiley's Snow Storm, Arker's Willamette Pet and Southworth's Nellie. Crawford's mare won the first heat, and Smiley's Snow Storm won the two following, the best, in 3:04. After winning the first heat, Crawford's mare had nearly completed the second, being best by two or three lengths, when her harness broke and she had to be taken off, on the home stretch. Smiley's horse took the first two heats in the second race, mile heats, two best in three, for purse of $50, against Ladd's Oregon Billy and Southworth's Nelly.

WHEAT EAST OF THE MOUNTAINS.—The Walla Walla Statesman reports wheat on the 25th, as having advanced to 60 cents per bushel, at which figure it was firm, under the effect of the news received from Portland a few days since when wheat was worth here $1 20. Previous to the late rise, the price at Walla Walla was 45 cents. The Statesman figures the cost of shipping wheat from that point to San Francisco, at $1 per bushel, from which, it will be seen, that the cost of Walla Walla wheat delivered at San Francisco, is fully up to that of the famous choice Santa Clara. The same paper says, at last accounts flour was selling at Canyon City at $15 per hundred.

OREGON BLACK WALNUTS.—Mr. Miller, of the fruit store, corner of Washington and First streets, has received from the farm near Milwaukie, a box of black walnuts grown on Oregon raised trees. He has raised this year about five bushels from two trees which are twenty-two years old from the seed. Last year the same trees produced about one bushel—their first crop. The nuts before being "shucked" are not so large as we have seen in the Ohio valley; but the nuts divested of the rind, will average quite well with those grown in the Mississippi valley.

WILLAMETTE FREIGHTS.—Arrived per steamer Alert from Oregon City yesterday, 704 bags wheat, 3 boxes and 11 hlf bbls produce, 346 qr sks flour, 1 bale woolen goods, 547 sks feed, 2 bales mdse. On Monday the Alert brought down, 1,472 qr sks flour, 50 hlf bbls dried apples, 5 cases mdse, 2 bales mdse, 26 sks oats, 8 gunnies bacon, 25 boxes produce, 280 bags wheat, 313 sks feed, 94 boxes apples and pears, 8 bales woolen goods and 18 gunnies dried fruit.

A NEW MASONIC HALL.—The upper story of Dr. Poppleton's new brick, yet unfinished, has been leased to Harmony Lodge No. 12, F. & A. M., to be occupied as a hall. It is expected that it will be completed and ready for occupancy about the 1st of January. When finished, it will be a large, convenient and elegant hall.

THE FALKINBURG.—A private telegram to this city from San Francisco, announces the arrival at that port of the bark Falkinburg, yesterday.

TO DAY'S RACES.—The first race at 1 P. M., to-day, at the Riverside track will be for a purse of $50—mile heats, best 3 in 5, for all horses that have never made better time than 3 minutes. Mohawk, Snow Storm and Sally-Come-Up are entered. The second race at 2 P. M., will be for a purse of $50—for all horses that have never shown better time than 2:55. California Lion, Sally-Come-Up, and Banks are entered.

JOHNNY GRAHAM'S BENEFIT.—Johnny Graham takes a benefit this evening at the Willamette Theater, on which occasion all the old members of the company, together with several volunteers, will appear in the best bill yet offered, consisting of new songs, dances, tableaux, burlesques and farces. We hope Johnny will get a good house.

SPARTANS VS. SECOND NINE OF PIONEERS.—The second game of the match pending between the Spartans and the second nine of the Pioneers, will be played to-day at half-past eight A. M., on the grounds at Oak and Fifth streets. In the first game of the match, the Spartans were victorious by a score of 63 to 40.

SOCIABLE.—The ladies of the Presbyterian church will give a sociable in the basement of the church, this (Wednesday evening), beginning at 7 o'clock, where they will be glad to see a large number of their friends.

GOV. WOODS.—The Umatilla Press of the 26th says Gov. Woods arrived at Umatilla on the 22d and left on the morning of the 23d for Union and Baker counties, to "arrange certain matters more satisfactorily with Lo."

TREASURE RECEIPTS.—Wells, Fargo & Co., received by the Hunt last evening, $15,000 in treasure.

MESSAGE.—There is a dispatch at the telegraph office for B. F. Bonham.

THE RACES came off at the Riverside Track, yesterday, and the spotted horse won; but the race for Barnum Bros. custom made clothing still goes on, and whoever buys wins.

THINGS FOR THE CHILDREN.—I. S. Rosenbaum & Co. have just received an extensive stock of toys which they propose to sell a little cheaper than anything of the kind lately offered in this market.

REGULAR SALE DAY.—To-day Mr. A. B. Richardson holds his regular sale of groceries, furniture and general merchandise. We noticed in his Sales-room yesterday some very nice furniture and carpeting which will be offered to-day.

TOYS! TOYS! MORE TOYS!—Any man's child, as well as children of an older growth, can find toys at San Francisco prices at J. Schonfield & Co's, corner First and Washington streets.

The Proprietor of the LAFAYETTE RESTAURANT takes pleasure in informing his friends and the public in general, that from this date, and during the oyster season, he will keep his establishment open at night until 2 o'clock A. M., and will serve Oysters and Suppers in every style.

HOSTETTER'S
CELEBRATED STOMACH BITTERS!
A Pure and Powerful Tonic,
Corrective and Alterative, of wonderful efficacy in Diseases of the STOMACH, LIVER AND BOWELS.
PROTECTIVE PROPERTIES.

Prevents Fever and Ague and Bilious Remittent Fevers; Fortifies the System against Miasma and the evil effects of unwholesome water; invigorates the organs of digestion and the bowels.

Steadies the Nerves and tends to Prolong Life.

REMEDIAL PROPERTIES.

Cures Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint, Sick and Nervous Headache, General Debility, Nervousness, Depression of Spirits, Constipation, Colic, Intermittent Fevers, Sea Sickness, Cramps and Spasms, and all complaints of either sex arising from Bodily Weakness, whether inherent in the system or PRODUCED BY SPECIAL CAUSES.

NOTHING THAT IS NOT WHOLESOME, GENIAL, and restorative in its nature, enters into the composition of HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS. This popular preparation contains no mineral of any kind; no deadly botanical element; no fiery excitant; but is a combination of the extracts of rare balsamic herbs and plants, with the purest and mildest of all diffusive stimulants.

The weak stomach is rapidly invigorated, and the appetite restored by this Tonic, and hence it works wonders in cases of Dyspepsia, and in less confirmed forms of Indigestion. Acting as a gentle and painless aperient, as well as upon the liver, it also invariably relieves the Constipation superinduced by irregular action of the digestive and secretive organs.

Persons of feeble habit, liable to Nervous Attacks, Lowness of Spirits, and Fits of Languor, find prompt and permanent relief from the Bitters. The testimony on this point is conclusive, and from both sexes.

As a Genial Tonic, HOSTETTER'S BITTERS produce effects which must be experienced or witnessed before they can be fully appreciated. In cases of Constitutional Weakness, Premature Decay, and Debility and Decrepitude arising from old age, it exercises the electric influences. In the convalescent stages of all diseases it operates as a delightful invigorant. When the powers of nature are relaxed, it operates to re-enforce and re-establish them.

Last, but not least, it is the only safe stimulant, being manufactured from sound and innocuous materials, and entirely free from the acid elements present more or less in all the ordinary tonics and stomachics of the day.

The Doctor's Match-Making

BY JOHN G. WHITTIER

"Good morning Mrs Barnet," cried Doctor Singletary, as we drew near a neat farm house, during one of our morning drives

A tall healthy young woman, in the bloom of matronly beauty was feeding chickens at the door She uttered an exclamation of delight, and hurried toward us Perceiving a stranger in the wagon she paused with a look of embarrassment

"My friend, who is spending a few weeks with me," explained the Doctor

She greeted me civilly, and pressed the doctor's hand warmly

"Oh, it is so long since you have called on us that we have been talking of going up to see you as soon as Robert can get away from his cornfield You don't know how little Lucy has grown lately You must stop and see her"

"She's coming to see me herself" replied the Doctor, beckoning to a sweet, blue eyed child in the doorway

The delighted mother caught up her darling and held her before the Doctor

"Doesn't she look like Robert?" she inquired "His very eyes and forehead bless me! here he is now"

A stout, hale young farmer, in a checked frock, and brown straw hat, came up from the adjoining field

"Well, Robert," said the Doctor, "how do matters stand with you?" "Well, I hope."

"All right, Doctor We've paid off the last cent of the mortgage and the farm is all free and clear. Julia and I have worked hard, but we're none the worse for it.

"You look well and happy, I am sure" answered the Doctor "I don't think you are sorry you took the advice of an old bachelor after all

The young wife's head dropped until her lips touched those of her child

"Sorry!" exclaimed her husband—"not we If there's anybody happier than we are within ten miles of us, I don't know them. Doctor, I'll tell you what I said to Julia the night I brought home that mortgage 'well, said I, that debt's paid, but there's one debt we can never pay as long as we live 'I know it, says she, 'but Dr Singletary wants no better reward for his kindness than to see us live happily together, and do for others what he has done for us'"

"Pshaw!" said the Doctor, catching up his reins and whip "You owe me nothing But I must not forget my errand. Poor old widow Whiting needs a watcher to night, and she insists upon having Julia Barnet, and nobody else What shall I tell her?"

"I'll go instantly. I can leave Lucy now as well as not."

"Good bye, neighbors"

"Good bye, Doctor."

As I drove off, I saw the Doctor draw his hand hastily across his eyes, and he said nothing for some minutes

"Public opinion," said he at length, as if pursuing his meditations aloud, "Public opinion is, nine cases out of ten public folly and impertinence We are slaves to one another—we dare not take counsel of our consciences and affections, but must needs suffer popular prejudice and custom to decide for us, and at their bidding are sacrificing friendship, all the best hopes of our lives We do not ask what is right and best for us, but what will folks say of it How few dare to seek their own happiness by the lights which God has given them, or have strength to defy the false pride and prejudice of the world, and stand fast in the liberty of Christians Can anything be more pitiable than the sight of so many who should be choosers and creators under God of their own spheres of utility and happiness, self degraded into mere slaves of propriety and custom their true natures undeveloped, their hearts cramped and shut up, each afraid of his neighbor, and his neighbor of him, living a life of unreality, deceiving and being deceived, and forever walking in a vain show? Here, now, we have just left a married couple who are happy because they have [illegible] counsel of their hearts affections rather than of the opinions of the multitude, and have dared to be true to themselves in defiance of impertinent gossip"

"You allude to young farmer Barnet and his wife, I suppose," said I.

"Yes I will give you their cases as an illustration. Julia Atkins was the daughter of Ensign Atkins, who lived on the mill road just above Deacon Warner's. When she was [illegible] years old her mother died, and in a few months afterwards her father married Polly Wiggins, the tailoress, a selfish, shrewd, managing woman Julia, poor girl, [illegible] hard times of it, for the Ensign, although a kind and [illegible] man naturally, was too weak and [illegible] to interfere between her and this [illegible] and [illegible] tongued wife. [illegible] Robert Barnet was the son of [illegible] neighbor, about [illegible] years [illegible]. They had grown up together [illegible] and playmates, and [illegible] to meet them, coming [illegible] from school, or from the woods with berries [illegible] talking and [illegible] world.

It so happened [illegible] Julia was in her seventeenth year, [illegible] writing master to Pohawkin. He was a showy, dashing young fellow, with a fashionable dress, a wicked eye, and a tongue like an old serpent's when tempting our grandmother Julia was one of his scholars, and perhaps the prettiest one of them all The rascal singled her out as one of the first, and the better to [illegible] his purpose, he left the tavern and took lodgings at the Ensign's He soon saw how matters stood in the family, and governed himself accordingly, taking a great deal pains to conciliate the ruling authority The Ensign's wife hated young Barnet, and wished to get rid of her daughter-in law The writing master therefore had a fair field. He flattered the poor girl by his attentions, and praised her beauty. Her moral training had not fitted her to withstand this seductive influence, no mother's love, with its quick, instinctive sense of danger threatening its object, interposed between her and her tempter Her old playmate and friend—he who could alone save her—had been rudely repulsed from the house by her mother-in law; and indignant and disgusted he retired from all competition with his formidable rival. Thus abandoned to her own undisciplined imagination, with the inexperience of a child and the passions of a woman, she was deceived by false pretenses, bewildered, fascinated, and beguiled into sin.

It is the same old story of woman's confidence and man's duplicity. The [illegible] writing master, under pretence of visiting a neighboring town, left his lodgings and never returned The last I heard of him he was the tenant of a Western penitentiary Poor Julia, driven in disgrace from her father's house, at last found refuge in the dwelling of an old woman of no very creditable character. There I was called to visit her, and although not unused to scenes of suffering and sorrow, I had never before witnessed such an utter abandonment of grief shame and remorse. Alas! what sorrow was like unto her sorrow. The birth hour of her infant was the hour also of its death.

The agony of her spirit seemed greater than she could bear Her eyes were opened, and she looked upon herself with loathing and horror She would admit to no hope, no consolation, she would listen to no palliation or excuse of her guilt I could only direct her to that source of pardon and peace to which the heart broken and contrite heart never appeals in vain

In the meantime Robert Barnet shipped on board a Labrador vessel The night before he left he called on me, and put in my hands a sum of money, small indeed, but all he could then command.

"You will see her often," he said, "do not let her suffer for she is more to be pitied than blamed"

I told him further that I would do all in my power for her and added that I thought far better of her, contrite and penitent as she was than of some who were busy in holding her up to shame and censure

"God bless you for these words!" he said, grasping my hand "I shall think of them often They will be a comfort to me"

As for Julia, God was more merciful to her than man; She rose from her sick bed thoughtful and humbled but with hopes which transcended the world of her suffering shame She no longer murmured against her sorrowful allotment, but accepted it with quiet and almost cheerful resignation, as the fitting penalty of God's broken laws, and the needed discipline of her spirit. She could say with the Psalmist. "The judgments of the Lord are true and thy judgments are true

Through her exertions she obtained employment in a respectable family to whom she endeared herself by her faithfulness, cheerful obedience, and unaffected piety Her trials had made her heart tender with sympathy for all in affliction

She seemed inevitably drawn towards the sick and suffering In their presence the burden of her own sorrow seemed to fall off She was the most cheerful and sunny faced nurse I ever knew and I always felt sure that my own efforts would be well seconded when I found her by the bedside of a patient Beautiful it was to see this poor young girl whom the world still looked upon with scorn and unkindness cheering the desponding and imparting as it were, her own strong healthful life to the weak and faint; supporting upon her bosom through weary nights, the heads of those who while in health, would have deemed her touch pollution, or to hear her singing for the ear of the dying, some sweet hymn of hope or resignation or calling to mind the consolations of the Gospel and the great love of Christ

"I trust," said I, "that the feelings of the community were softened toward her

"You know what human nature is," replied the Doctor— "and with what hearty satisfaction we abhor and censure folly and sin in others It is a luxury which we cannot easily forego although our own experience teaches us that the consequences of vice and error are bitter enough without the aggravation of reproach and ridicule without [illegible] need not be surprised to learn that, to poor Julia's case, the charity of sinners like herself did not keep pace with the mercy and forgiveness of Him who is infinite in purity Nevertheless I will do our people the justice to say that her kindness and self sacrificing life was not without its proper effect upon them"

"What became of Robert Barnet?" I inquired "He came after an absence of several months and called on me before he had even seen his father and mother He did not mention Julia, but I saw that his errand with me concerned her I spoke of her excellent deportment and useful life and dwelt upon the extenuating circumstances of her error, and of her sincere and hearty repentance

"Doctor," said he, at length, with a hesitating and embarrassed manner, "what would you think if I should tell you that, after all that has passed, I have made up my mind to ask her to be my wife?"

"I should think better of it if you had wholly made up your mind," said I "And if you were my son, I would not ask for you a better wife than Julia Atkins Don't hesitate, Robert, on account of what some ill natured people may say Consult your own heart first of all

"I don't care for the talk of all the busy bodies in town," he said "but I wish that father and mother could feel as you do about her

"Leave that to me," said I "they are kind hearted and reasonable, and I dare say will be disposed to make the best of the matter when they find you are decided in your purpose"

I did see him again, but a few days after I learned from his parents that he had gone on another voyage It was now autumn, and the most sickly season I have ever known in Pohawkin Ensign Atkins and his wife both fell sick, and Julia embraced with alacrity this providential opportunity to return to her father's house and fulfill the duties of a daughter Under her careful nursing, the Ensign soon got upon his feet, but his wife, whose constitution was weaker sunk under the fever She died better than she lived, penitent and loving, asking forgiveness of Julia for her neglect and unkindness, and invoking blessings on her head Julia had now, for the first time since the death of her mother, a comfortable home and a father's love and protection Her sweetness of temper, patient endurance, and forgetfulness of herself in her labors for others, gradually overcame the scruples and hard feelings of her neighbors They began to question whether, after all, it was meritorious in them to treat one like her as a sinner beyond forgiveness Elder Staples and Deacon Warner were her fast friends The Deacon's daughter—the tall, blue eyed, brown locked girl you noticed at church the other day—set the example among the young people of treating her as their equal and companion."

One midwinter evening I took Julia with me to a sick patient of mine, who was suffering for lack of attendance The house where she lived was in a lonely and desolate place, some two or three miles below us, on a sandy level, just elevated above the great salt marshes, stretching far away to the sea. The night set in dark and stormy. The fierce northeasterly wind swept over the level waste, driving thick snow clouds before it, shaking the doors and windows of the old house, and roaring in its vast chimney. The woman was dying when we arrived and her drunken husband was sitting in stupid unconcern in the corner of the fire place A little after midnight she breathed her last

In the meantime the storm had grown more violent, there was a blinding snow falling in the air, and we could feel the jar of the great waves as they broke upon the beach

"It is a terrible night for sailors on the coast," I said, breaking our long silence with the dead "God grant them sea room!"

Julia shuddered as I spoke, and by the dim flashing firelight, I saw her weeping. I knew her thoughts were with her old friend and playmate on the wide waters

"Julia," said I, "do you know that Robert Barnet loves you with all the strength of an honest and true heart?"

She trembled, and her voice faltered as she confessed that, when Robert was at home, he had asked her to become his wife.

"And like a fool, you refused him, I suppose, the brave, generous fellow"

"Oh, doctor," she exclaimed, "how can you talk so? It is just because Robert is so good and noble and generous, that I dare not take him at his word You, Doctor, would have despised me if I had taken advantage of his pity, or his kind remembrance of the old days when we were children together I have already brought too much disgrace upon those dear to me" I was endeavoring to convince her, in reply, that she was doing injustice to herself, and wronging her best friend, whose happiness depended, in a great measure, upon her, when, borne upon the strong blast, we both heard a faint cry, as of a human being in great distress I threw up the window, which opened seaward, and we both leaned out into the wild night and listened breathlessly for the sound.

Once more, and once only we heard it, a low, smothered, despairing cry

"Some one is lost and perishing in the snow," said Julia. "The sound comes in the direction of the beach plum bushes on the side of the marsh Let us go at once"

She snatched up her hood and shawl, and was already at the door I found and lighted a lantern, and soon overtook her The snow was already deep and badly drifted, and it was with extreme difficulty that we could force our way against the storm We stopped often to breathe and listen; but the roaring of the wind and waves was alone audible At last we reach a slightly elevated spot, overgrown with dwarf plum trees, whose branches were dimly visible above the deep snow.

"Here, bring the lantern here!" cried Julia, who had strayed a few yards from me. I hastened to her, and found her lifting up the body of a man who was apparently insensible The rays from the lantern fell full upon his face, and we both at the same instant recognized—Robert Barnet Julia neither shrieked nor fainted, but, kneeling in the snow, and still supporting the body, she turned toward me a look of earnest and fearful inquiry

"Courage," said I, "he still lives! He is only overcome with fatigue and cold"

With much difficulty, partly carrying, and partly dragging, him through the snow, we succeeded in getting him to the house, where in a short time he so far recovered as to be able to speak Julia, who had been my prompt and efficient assistant in his restoration, retired into the shadow of the room as soon as he began to rouse himself and look about him He asked where he was, and who was with me, saying that his head was so confused that he thought he saw Julia Atkins by the bedside! "You were not mistaken," said I, "Julia is here, and you owe your life to her" He started up, and gazed around the room I beckoned Julia to the bedside, and I never shall forget the grateful earnestness with which he grasped her by the hands, and called upon God to bless her Some folks think me a tough hearted old fellow, and so I am, but that scene was more than I could bear without shedding tears Robert told us that his vessel had been thrown upon the beach a mile or two below, and he feared that all the crew had perished save himself

Assured of his safety, I went out once more in the faint hope of hearing the voice of some survivor of the disaster but I listened only to the heavy thunder of the surf, rolling along the horizon of the east The storm had in a measure ceased, the gray light of dawn was just visible, and I was gratified to see two of the nearest neighbors approaching the house On being informed of the wreck, they immediately started for the beach where several dead bodies, half buried in snow, confirmed the fears of the solitary survivor

The result of all this you can easily conjecture Robert Barnet abandoned the sea, and, with the aid of his friends, purchased the farm where he now lives, and the anniversary of the shipwreck found him the husband of Julia I can assure you I have had every reason to congratulate myself on my share in the match making Nobody ventured to find fault with it except two or three sour old busy bodies, who as Elder Staple well says, 'would have cursed her whom Christ had forgiven, and spurned the weeping Magdalene from the feet of the Lord'"

A natural curiosity in Martin county, Indiana is thus described, "It stands alone in the dense forest, a gigantic stone jug, about fifty feet in hight, about five feet in diameter at the base eight feet midship, and two feet at the top, upon which rests a broad, flat rock, about ten by fifteen feet, covered with bushes and wild ivy, and some three feet from the center stands a small tree The rock is a great curiosity, and a view of it should never be lost by the traveler passing that way"

Another trouble with the English style of railway carriages is, that guards of a curious turn of mind climb along the top and peer in at the passengers One of them, who was thus watching a gentleman and lady, was crushed under a bridge for his impertinence

What a queer fellow the Frenchman must have been, who for twenty years loved a lady and never missed passing his evenings at her house She became a widow "I wish you joy," cried his friend "you may now marry the woman you have so long adored" "Alas!" said the poor Frenchman, profoundly dejected "and where shall I spend my evenings?"

Another of General Washington's cotemporaries has just departed Mrs Mary Arnold of Brooklyn, died in that city September [illegible] aged 110 year She visited General Washington when he lived in Pearl street New York and during the war of 1812 was one of the women who assisted in throwing up the earth works at Fort Greene

A gentleman was bathing at the seaside, and swimming right gallantly, when a Newfoundland dog sprang into the water and insisted on saving him The gentleman declined but was eventually obliged to give way for fear of being drowned, and was quietly pulled on shore by the hair of his head

PERRY DAVIS' PAIN KILLER.

It is a real pleasure to us to speak favorably of this article, known almost universally to be a good and safe remedy for burns and other pains of the body It is valuable not only for colds in the winter, but for various summer complaints, and should be in every family The casualty which demands it may come unawares —Christian Advocate.

PAIN KILLER taken internally should be a little rated with milk or water, and sweetened with sugar if desired or made into a syrup with molasses For a Cough and Bronchitis, a few drops on sugar eaten, will be more effective than anything else. For Sore Throat gargle the throat with a mixture of Pain Killer and water and the relief is immediate and cure positive

THE ROYAL BALSAM!

HAS NOW BEEN BEFORE THE PUBLIC FOR A length of time and wherever used is highly recommended never failing in a single instance to give permanent relief when timely used and we have never known a single case of dissatisfaction, but, on the contrary, all are delighted with it and speak in the highest terms of its magical effects The astonishing efficacy of the ROYAL BALSAM in curing the diseases for which it is recommended entitles it to the highest rank among the list of medicines and no family can be without it after once trying it

☞ Read the following testimonials from some of the most prominent citizens of Oregon:

MIRACULOUS CURE.

DR. HENLEY—Dear Sir I feel it but a duty to inform you and the public what a miraculous effect your Royal Balsam has had on my wife She had been affected with a severe cough for several weeks which had assumed a dangerous feature for which many physicians have been trying, without any material benefit, and all the remedies failed to give her any relief Without relief was got I feared for the worst, in her present condition The cough appeared to be worse at night she could get no rest—when Mr Randall of this place, advised me to try your Royal Balsam; all other remedies having failed I concluded to try it and I purchased two bottles Strange to say by the time I gave her three spoonfuls of the Balsam she got relief and slept, a thing she had not done for three nights previous By the time she had taken one bottle the cough was checked Its effect was truly miraculous as the cure was effectual hence I have no hesitation in recommending the Royal Balsam to all who are afflicted, and it appears astonishing to me that medicine of such great merit and I might say magical effect, is not more in use My candid opinion is, if persons use it once they never be without it in the house

Vancouver, March 1 1867 H. COCHRAN

From Wm. Doty.

North Yamhill, July 15 1867

DEAR DR. HENLEY—It is with sincere gratitude I undertake to write to you, what your Royal Balsam has done for me For the last 12 years I have been afflicted with a severe cough and what also some of the physicians called the Bronchitis, and have spent a fortune to get cured, trying all the physicians and remedies I could get to no purpose, Through the influence of my neighbors (for you have a great name with them here,) I got a bottle of your Royal Balsam and finding that it relieved me considerable I sent for a half dozen more. And now after one month using it I am perfectly cured I gained ten pounds within a month and feel quite a different man I send you this for publication for the benefit of humanity that through my experience others in affliction may be relieved as I have been Yours truly

WILLIAM DOTY

From Sophia M. Holman.

DEAR DR. HENLEY—It is my duty to inform you and the public what a miraculous effect your Royal Balsam had on my children Two of them had a very bad cough and cold I got a bottle of the Royal Balsam, and gave them some at bedtime and some in the morning and that was all that was needed to cure them I was astonished at not hearing them cough again, but so it was. I find if you give it in larger doses it will make the children throw up in an instant and I think every mother ought to have a bottle of your Royal Balsam in the house, in case a child should get the croup for which it is a sure remedy as it acts like magic on children What I have seen and heard from my neighbors about the Royal Balsam I would sooner depend on it than on any prescription from any physician I have lost two children within the last year of the same disease, had I had at the time some of the Royal Balsam I am confident my dear ones would be alive now I shall always recommend it to all my friends for I consider it a blessing and Godsend to mankind

Yours truly, SOPHIA M. HOLMAN

From Drs. Bell & Parker.

We have sold a great deal of Medicine since we have been in business and now have fifteen different kinds of Expectorants for sale But Dr Henley's Royal Balsam takes the palm from all! In fact, we sell six bottles of Royal Balsam to one of any other kind—and really it seems of no use to keep any other During our experience we have never seen any medicine that gives the satisfaction the Royal Balsam does as is proven by the results daily coming in from the country of old Chronic cases when nothing else would remove the dreadful cough they had I find it is good for Bronchitis and Asthma We acknowledge it is a pleasure to sell medicine that gives such universal satisfaction

BELL & PARKER,
Druggists, Oregon City

From W. F. Barber.

DR. HENLEY—Dear Sir: I had the Asthma for the last four years so bad that it came near choking me I tried all the patent medicines recommended for the cure of Asthma without doing me the least good, till I was told to try some of your Royal Balsam, which on several afflicted with the same disease, has performed wonders I am using it now for a week and strange to say I have not experienced anything since, and I really believe that I am perfectly cured anyhow I shall never be without a bottle of the Royal Balsam in the house in case of a similar attack and I have no hesitation in recommending it to all afflicted with the same disease

I am Yours truly
W. F. BARBER

From J. H. Morril.

DEAR DR. HENLEY—I think it but justice to you that these few lines should be made known to the public for there is so much humbug going on in patent medicines and quack nostrums now a days that I had lost all faith in everything in the shape of medicine I was affected with what is called Bronchitis for the last thirty years, I caught a cold where I for an hour at a time I tried some of the best physicians in the Atlantic States and on this coast all to no purpose I could get no relief and I really thought there was no relief for me in the world I was advised to try a bottle of your Royal Balsam and it had a most remarkable effect on me and before I had used up four bottles the cough left me and I can talk as loud as anybody. My wife and neighbors don't know what to make of it My opinion is that if they knew the value of the Royal Balsam there is not a family in the country that would be without it I think there is not a better medicine in existence for Bronchitis or cough than the Royal Balsam and I conscientiously recommend it to all so afflicted to give it a fair trial

I remain yours, truly,

Dr Gibbon's Dispensary,

616 KEARNEY STREET, NEAR COMMERCIAL, San Francisco Established in 1854, for the treatment of Sexual and Seminal Diseases, such as Gonorrhoea, Gleet, Stricture, Syphilis in all its forms, Seminal Weakness, Impotency, etc Skin Diseases (of years standing) and Ulcerated Legs successfully treated

Horrible Diseases.

How many thousands of persons, both male and female, are there who are suffering out a miserable existence from the effects of secret indulgences or from virus absorbed into the system Look at their pallid, emaciated and disfigured faces and their broken-down constitutions, disqualifying them for the happiness of marriage or the enjoyment of life In this horrid situation thousands suffer until death closes the scene Let parents, guardians, friends, attend to those who are suffering with any of these horrible life-destroying maladies see that they are cared for and cured before it be too late. Send them immediately to Doctor Gibbon, a physician who has made private disease his especial study for years, and who is certain to cure the most inveterate cases without mercury or any injurious drugs It is important to those who are afflicted, or to those who are interested in the welfare of their friends, to be careful of the many pretended doctors who infest all cities, publishing their skill in curing all diseases in a few days imposing upon the public by using the names of eminent physicians from Europe and other places Be therefore careful and make strict inquiry, or you may fall into the hands of those charlatans

Seminal Weakness.

Seminal Emissions, the consequence of self-abuse This solitary vice, or depraved sexual indulgence, is practised by the youth of both sexes to an almost unlimited extent, producing, with unerring certainty, the following train of morbid symptoms, unless combatted by scientific medical measures, viz: Sallow countenance, dark spots under the eyes, pain in the head, ringing in the ears, noise like the rustling of leaves and rattling of chariots uneasiness about the loins, weakness of the limbs, confused vision, blunted intellect, loss of confidence, diffidence in approaching strangers a dislike to form new acquaintances, a disposition to shun society, loss of memory, hectic flushes pimples and various eruptions about the face, furred tongue, fetid breath, coughs, consumption, night sweats monomania and frequent insanity. If relief be not obtained should apply immediately, either in person or by letter and have a cure effected by his new and scientific mode of treating this disease which never fails of effecting a quick and radical cure Dr G will give One Hundred Dollars to any person who will prove satisfactorily to him that he was cured of this complaint by either of the San Francisco quacks

MARRIED MEN,

Or those who contemplate marriage, who are suffering under any of these fearful maladies, should not forget the sacred responsibility resting upon them nor delay to obtain immediate relief

TO THE LADIES.

The various complicated and distressing diseases incident to females, treated with eminent success Such as Suppressions, Irregularities Whites, Falling of the Womb Tumors, all Urinary Diseases, Nervous Debility, Painful or Difficult Menstruation Barrenness, etc, will be speedily cured, without poisonous drugs, injuries or unpalatable medicines of any kind Have no delicacy in calling no difference what your troubles may be The afflicted are cordially invited to call and satisfy themselves

Persons calling at Dr Gibbon's office or sending for packages of medicines, may rely upon his assurances of confidential secrecy with implicit faith, and expect no more than to be charged with a fair, and mutually satisfactory remuneration for services rendered, considering the circumstances and difficulties of cases, rather than a too prevalent and selfish practice of extortion among quacks and pretenders.

DOCTOR GIBBON is responsible, and will give to each patient a written instrument, binding himself to effect a radical and permanent cure or make no charge

CURED AT HOME.

Persons at a distance may be CURED AT HOME by addressing a letter to Dr Gibbon, stating case, symptoms, length of time the disease has continued, and have medicines promptly forwarded, free from damage and curiosity, to any part of the country with full and plain directions for use for Ten Dollars, sent in registered letter or through Wells Fargo & Co,

Fountain of Life!

THE

GREAT BLOOD PURIFIER!

IN EVERY PROGRESSIVE SCIENCE PERIODS ARRIVE when a new direction is imparted to its course These epochs proceed from discovery of new facts shedding a light which changes the whole aspect of the science. The present is an epoch of this kind and this Great Remedy, now offered to the public in connection with the theory on which it is based is destined to effect an entire revolution in the treatment of the diseases of

by eradicating the disease entirely from the blood The FOUNTAIN OF LIFE is composed entirely of vegetable extracts; it contains no Mercury or other mineral substance

The Proprietor and Discoverer of this Sovereign Remedy CHALLENGES THE WORLD to furnish anything from the days of Æsculapius down to the present time, in the arcana of Medical Science which can vie with or excel the intrinsic properties of this Great Blood Purifier Its value has been tested with the happiest effect in the most obstinate cases of Scrofula, that baffled the skill of the most eminent physicians in the world No matter what form the dreadful disease of SCROFULA and KING'S EVIL may have assumed it can in no way be more safely and certainly arrested in its progress than by HENLEY'S GREAT BLOOD PURIFIER Thousands have been swept into their graves who had they made a timely use of the FOUNTAIN OF LIFE, might now be enjoying the blessings of life and health It requires an article of real merit and intrinsic value to sustain itself During the stern ordeal of public experiment the FOUNTAIN OF LIFE has stood the test triumphantly and not been found wanting

☞ Dr HENLEY guarantees to CURE any case of SCROFULA or KING'S EVIL in the world and eradicate the disease entirely from the system or no charge made, provided they will secure him his pay when they are cured

FOR REFERENCE

I would refer you to E. J. Peck of Portland Oregon and numbers of others as to what a miraculous effect it has in a short time in cases that had baffled the skill of physicians for years
